

PRESS RELEASE

Family business operates 30 service companies in the health care sector

Lünendonk: Klüh no. 2 in Germany in service companies

Düsseldorf, 26 September 2018 - according to a recent publication by the consulting company Lünendonk & Hossenfelder, Klüh Multiservices is the number 2 operator of health service companies nationwide. With a total of 30 so-termed tax-group companies, the Düsseldorf-based family business for infrastructural services underlines its competence in the care market and banishes many competitors to the back seats.

The control of non-medically relevant processes poses a challenge for many hospitals. Whether catering for patients and staff, patient-side services, logistical processes or cleaning tasks at the highest hygiene standards - the service company provides hospitals with a possible organisational model which combines cost advantages with efficient control outside of the core processes in cooperation with experienced service providers.

According to Lünendonk & Hossenfelder, the service company plays a correspondingly important role in the German healthcare sector. In the words of Thomas Ball, senior consultant for facility management services, the ranking carried out by the consulting company "provides hospitals with orientation and, at the same time, offsets the frequent sentiment that service companies are becoming obsolete".
