

PRESS RELEASE

10-year contract with innovative concept

Klüh Catering takes over canteen in the central building of Leuphana

Düsseldorf/Lüneburg, 13.12.2018 – with its concept of focusing on value-oriented education and socially relevant research, Leuphana University Lüneburg is one of the country's most innovative universities. From April 2019, Klüh Catering, Düsseldorf, will be offering meals for students and employees of the university. The public catering is accommodated in the central building designed by the star architect Daniel Libeskind, which is an architectural landmark due to its appearance and efficiency.

The Rhenish family enterprise, which, among other things, serves 120 company restaurants nationwide, convinced with innovative meal concepts, extensive sectoral experience and highly up-to-date visualisation of the offers.

The contract is set to run for ten years and includes an option for a five-year extension.

Alongside breakfast and lunch with a regional focus, the culinary range includes healthy and generous snacks, popular street food variations and additional specials. Further attractive offers include homemade cakes and specialty coffees in a design coffee shop as well as à la carte meals including evening service. In addition, the Klüh Catering team offers to organise events in the auditorium and on the entire campus.

"We are pleased that, in Klüh Catering, we have found an experienced and imaginative contractual partner, whose operator concept harmonises well with the wide-ranging requirements which result from the varying use aspects of our central building", says Christian Brei, full time vice president of Leuphana.

Before the start in April, Klüh Catering will completely redesign the kitchen and dining area. For the implementation, the Düsseldorf-based caterer is going digital: meal offers will be presented on large flat-screens and can be accessed along with further information at any time using the Klüh app. Free Wi-Fi for all the guests is also part of the concept and guarantees the trouble-free use of digital media.

Thorsten Greth, Managing Director of Klüh Catering: "We are looking forward to the exciting and responsible task in Lüneburg. Good nutrition is an important foundation for well-being and working capacity. With our innovative and contemporary concepts, we wish to make our contribution to a conscious diet and a holistic lifestyle."
